TESTING MILK WITHOUT USE OF SPECIAL INSTRUMENTS

Process Is Described for Detecting Added Water or of Skimmed Milk and Is More Accurate Than Simple Use of the Lactometer Without the Creamometer Check.

Testing Milk Without Apparatus.

The following process for the detection of added water or of skimmed milk in ordinary milk is more accurate than the simple use of the lactometer without the creamometer check. The whole test can be made in five minutes. The result does not show whether the adulteration consisted in the addition of water or in the subtraction of cream, but as a rule this matters little to the consumer. What he wants to know is whether or not he had what he paid for.

The suspected milk is stirred with a spoon, in order to disseminate into the whole liquid the cream which may have come to the surface. Then one volume of milk is poured into fifty volumes of water. (One fluid ounce to two and a half pints.) A candle is lighted in a dark room. The experimenter takes an ordinary drinking glass with a tolerably flat and even bottom, and holds it right above the candle, at a distance of about one foot from it, so as to be able to see the flame of the candle through the bottom of the glass. He then pours slowly and carefully the diluted milk into the glass.

The flame becomes less and less bright as the level of the liquid rises into the glass. The flame is soon reduced to a dull white spot. A little more liquid, slowly added so as to avoid pouring an excess, and the flame becomes absolutely invisible. All that remains to be done is to measure the height of the liquid in the glass, this being most conveniently ascertained by dipping into it a strip of pasteboard and then measuring the wet part. It should measure not over one inch if the milk is pure. With good quality milk, diluted and tested as stated, the depth will be about 7-8 of an inch before the flame is lost to view.

A mixture of one volume of milk and a half a volume of water should show a depth of 1 1/2 inches. A depth of 2 inches indicates either partially skimmed milk or a mixture of one volume of good milk with one of water, and so on.

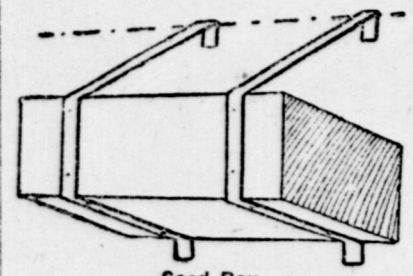

The reader has already understood that the process is based upon the close relation between the capacity of milk and the number of fatty corpuscles contained in it. Both skimming and the adding of water work in the same direction, namely, to decrease the capacity of milk. The same cannot be said of the density. Skimming increases it, adding water decreases it; and the common test, which consists in the mere introduction of the lactometer in milk, is worthless, as a skimmed milk may have a normal density if care has been taken to pour into it a certain amount of water. Density should be taken before and after skimming, and the percentage of cream should be determined with the creamometer. Thus applied, the density test requires a lactometer, a thermometer, and a creamometer, and the test requires twenty-four hours, while the result is not much more accurate than the opacity test just described.

Much of the trouble with the milk is caused after it leaves the producers, often being held back at the stations 36 to 48 hours before it is shipped. This milk must necessarily be nearly 60 hours old before it reaches the consumer. If the board of health would insist that all milk should be shipped out on the day of

All that is needed is one buggy tire and six nails to nail irons to the seed box for any ordinary size box holding a sack of corn. The irons must be nailed on box and then the box can be lifted off and set away while using the wagon for other work, instead of wiring it or nailing to the

ELECTRIC INCUBATOR IS BIG

Machine Built for New Orleans Poultry Raiser Has Capacity of 5,000 Eggs—How Worked.

One of the largest electric incubators in use anywhere in the world was built for a poultry raiser in New Orleans. It is 19 feet long by 5 feet wide, and contains 40 compartments, each having a capacity of 150 eggs, says the Popular Mechanic. Each compartment can be separately controlled.

rolled, so that any one, or all of the compartments, can be operated, according to the number of eggs to be hatched. The controlling thermostats used do not completely break the electric circuit, but introduce the comparatively high resistance of a small electric lamp when open, thus avoiding sparking at the contacts.

POULTRY NOTES

Nothing like a few warm days to coax the hens to lay.

Don't let your breeders get too fat or you will be sorry for it.

Young ducks should always have plenty of water and shade and grit.

Green cut bone and meat foods are no worms and bugs in the winter season.

No condition powder on the market is as good as wholesome food and plenty of exercise.

Turkey gobblers should be mated with the hens as early as possible, not later than the first of April.

The best time to turn a rooster that has been lived particularly with a slow to increased egg production.

Introducing seen lowers the vitality of a flock. That is why we should get new males or settings of eggs every year.

There is genuine satisfaction in owning thoroughbred stock and they cost no more to feed. Do it for the best.

Have you ever noticed the hens following the plow and did you observe how fast the grub disappeared? This is good for the hens and the land also. Encourage them.

A bone cutter will surely pay for itself. Green cut bone supplies the hen with ability to produce eggs, nourishes her feathers and keeps her in general good health.

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Forster, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women.

Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

Entered at the Greenville, Ky., postoffice as second-class matter.

DOUBTLESS the coming Fourth of July will be the sanest we have had in recent years, and when we get that day absolutely in its right mind we can start in to cure the other 364.

ELECTRIC welding of unusual interest has recently been accomplished by the New York city electric street railway company, using a portable welding plant to reclaim from the scrap heap motor shells, oil cups, axles, and gear cases. Although many of these parts were very "far gone" ingenious work made them all good for another term of usefulness.

BELGIUM, we are astonished to learn, is in a state bordering on revolution, due to industrial depression. We had an idea that between Belgian flares and Brussels carpets the Belgians were all rolling in wealth, dining sumptuously on Brussels sprouts three times a day.

AN Illinois editor allows valuable space for this, which he thinks is a just complaint that may remedy an evil that is widespread:

Here, then, we have the moving picture show widower. Harken to his plaint: "I wonder if the moving picture people can't be prosecuted for conspiracy to restraint of matrimonial felicity? Their multiplication has wrought havoc in many a happy home. They're a sort of uninstitutionalized trust. They have no organization—not even a 'gentleman's agreement.' But they don't compete for the reason that no matter how many there are, the women go to all of 'em. This is easily possible, for the shows run all the time. When there were but two in my neighborhood I met my wife occasionally, but now that there are five she visits the flat only for a little sleep and nourishment. I have forgotten how she looks with street clothes on. You see I go to work at 6 o'clock and get my own breakfast. I get home for dinner only to find a cold spread laid out for me on the kitchen table, and I am sound asleep when my wife gets in along about midnight. In the morning I do not like to awaken her, lest the neighbors have me arrested for disturbing the peace. This has been going on for a year. And it leads to embarrassing consequences. Why, the other day a nicely dressed woman came into my office and, walking up to me, called me by my first name and asked me for $10. I started to call the police, but there was something familiar in the stranger's countenance, so I desisted until I could learn more about her. It was well I did. She proved to be my wife!"

Ivy-Poisoning.
Poisoning the skin by poison ivy (Rhus Toxicodendron) is frequent in the summer and the early autumn. Some fortunate persons are not susceptible, but most are poisoned as they come into direct contact with the plant.

The disorder causes discomfort always, and sometimes suffering. It shows itself within a few hours, with redness, heat, and irritation of the skin, swelling and the formation of small vesicles. These vesicles may occur in great numbers. Often many of them coalesce to form blisters, and they also break and exude a sticky, yellowish serum. It is this fluid that, by its escape, spreads the disease to the adjacent skin, or to the face and other parts of the body.

The swelling may be so considerable as completely to close the eyes. As a rule, the acute symptoms continue several days, at the end of which time the vesicles either discharge or crust over; and the swelling and redness slowly disappear. In this stage, the itching may be intense, and is likely to provoke repeated scratching, which may in turn bring about eczema.

The best way to treat ivy-poisoning is simple. The inflamed skin should be copiously washed with lukewarm water and a soap that does not irritate. The parts affected should then be bathed with a watery solution of permanganate of potash, as hot as can be borne. If the skin is broken, a one per cent. solution should be used; if the skin is not broken, however, the strength of the solution may be increased up to two or three per cent. Treatment should begin the instant symptoms are observed.

In mild cases, one treatment is enough. Occasionally the poison is more deeply seated, and the permanganate must be applied for some time. In these cases, and in extremely rare instances of systemic infection due to the entrance of the poison into the circulation, a physician must be called.

The patient must avoid scratching of course. Bandages are undesirable, because they tend to spread the poison over the surrounding skin. If any protector is needed, let it be a loosely applied dressing of absorbent cotton and gauze, changed frequently, and kept moist at all times with warm water containing a little bicarbonate of soda.

Permanganate of potash discolors everything with which it comes into contact, and stains the skin a deep brown color, but that is a small price to pay for the relief it affords. The stain will wear off in a few days, or it can be removed by vigorous applications of soap and water. In the healing stages of the disorder soothing ointments may be used.

Kill the Fly. Why? Because—

Flies breed in manure and other filth. Flies wait and feed on excreta and sputa from people ill with typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diarrhoeal affections and many other diseases.

One fly can carry and may deposit on our food 6,000,000 bacteria. One fly in one summer may produce normally 195,312,500,000,000,000 descendants.

A fly is an enemy to health—the health of our children, the health of our community!

A fly cannot develop from the egg in less than eight days; therefore, if we clean up everything thoroughly every week, and keep all manure screened, there need be no flies.

Will you help in the campaign against the pest?

Mr. Clyde Waters, one of the leading citizens of Powderly, merchant and postmaster, died at his home at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, following an illness of two weeks from typhoid fever, which had been serious from the first, and for some days there had been little hope that he could recover. There were few young men in the county who were better known or generally liked than Clyde Waters. He was capable, accommodating, generous and thoughtful, and was held in the highest regard by all. Interment was in the graveyard near his home, following a service at the house at 1 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Dr. R. W. Henderson. Both services were very largely attended. His widow and three small children are joined in their sorrow by a wide circle of friends.

A Clean Man
Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts. He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.
It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

BOOSTERS

To the Number of 125 Visit Us, Telling of Louisville's Industries and Praising Our Advantages.

"I've a dawg, but he ain't no houn'." "He is a bull, welsch norty poun'." "Two rows of teeth and an awful foun'." "Nobody's kickin' my dawg aroun'."

Singing the above song, which is just such as would be expected and proper by independent and aggressive "Boosters," 125 of the leading business men of Louisville piled out of a train of eight Pullman cars at the depot at 5:20 Monday evening. Vehicles awaited them, and all were soon landed at court house square, which was packed by a crowd of some 600 or 700 of our towns people and nearby farmers. Seibert's band which accompanies the "Boosters" in their three day trip through Western Kentucky and a few points in Tennessee, entertained the crowd with one or two selections, and words of welcome were then spoken by Mr. H. O. Meredith, who represented the Mayor. Mr. Frank Cassell responded, and then introduced Mr. Albert B. Wimsatt, Mayor W. O. Head and President John M. Scott, of the Louisville Commercial Club, J. W. Newman, Secty. of State Fair each of whom made earnest, happy talks, setting forth the advantages of Louisville, and urging a closer connection between the metropolis and the smaller cities, towns and villages of the State. During the progress of the speaking the men of the visiting party were busy making business and social acquaintances, and shaking hands with the many business men in various lines they knew here. There was general reference to the royal welcome extended here, and the homes, business houses, streets, pavements and all improvements were commented upon by all, especially by those who had been here before, as they noted the vast improvement of the past few years, and could see nothing but a bright future for the capital of Muhlenberg. The visitors left at 7:30, spending the night at Dawson. The trip was completed last night, the special train arriving at Louisville at 6:45.

Children's Day Exercises Sunday.

The annual observance of Children's Day was held at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, the program being carried out entirely by the children who had been under the training of Mrs. G. P. Dillon, Miss Lelia DeWitt and Mrs. T. B. Slaton; the house was packed to overflowing, scores of persons contentedly standing around the sides of the building. Every number was pleasing and the audience was interested and delighted with the efforts of the little folks. The decorations, by Mr. Wm. H. Reynolds, were effective, and Miss Laura Pittman, at the organ rendered valuable aid.

On the fourth Sunday the Woodmen of Powderly will meet at Jernigan's Chapel, where they will unveil a monument to Walter C. Heltsley. Everyone is invited to attend these exercises.

Mr. Lemont Pannell returned the latter part of the week from Lexington, where he completed the course in law, and was given a certificate. While Mr. Pannell is now qualified to practice his profession, it is his intention to pursue his studies to the A. B. degree before he enters the active practice.

Window shades, door mats, curtain poles, porch seats, drawer pulls (wood, brass, glass) drapery rods, all sorts of small things for the home at Roark's.

Brass Band Being Organized.

Mr. C. T. Bailey, manager of Alice theatre, has for some time been making efforts to interest the young men of the city in the organization of a brass band, and has at last reached a point where the matter is practically assured. Ten members have been secured, and it is hoped that the organization will reach such a stage that the instruments can be ordered this week. A good band is one of the best things that a town can have, and from the boys who have joined we have every reason to expect the very best for the number of pieces employed.

Drop in at Roark's and hear the Victrola play the newest selections in songs, band and orchestra numbers, speeches, etc.

Kill the fly.

The Needs of Our City.

Notwithstanding we have an up-to-date model town in some respects situated upon an elevated plateau sufficiently undulating to give it an admirable drainage, with well arranged streets and sidewalks of concrete work, nice modern built residences on all the public streets, with beautiful yards of bluegrass clustered with flowers of every hue. Notwithstanding we are free from the practice of immoral conduct of gaming and dissipation that mars the peace of society, yet we greatly stand in need of some things. There is still a feature of rudeness manifested in the disposition of some of our citizens to adhere to the usages and customs of the past. We find this to be cropping out in the conduct of some of those that have been entrusted to look after the welfare and progressiveness of our city. Unfortunately they lack nerve and moral courage to meet the demands of the times. Their timidity renders them incapable of meeting with the required demands that belong to progressive civilization. There can be no greater annoyance and nuisance than a brigade of starved chickens to be prowling around over the streets and alleys of our town, invading the gardens and flower beds of homes and doing more harm than hogs or cows. We understand that four of our honorable councilmen failed to have sufficient nerve to pull a setting hen from her nest, and voted for the chickens to have full sway in their destructive effects and to continue a nuisance, to aggravate the people who want to live in peace and refinement. The said parties seem to be reluctant to giving their support to the improvement of the conditions of our town, or they seem to have a disposition to forage their own chickens on the premises and effects of their neighbors, such conduct shows that they have a real old time back wood symptoms rankling in their mortal makeup; but it is to be hoped that the scales of delusive rudeness may yet fall from their eyes and they may be able to comprehend and to understand the present needs and requirements of our town, as do many of those with whom they are associated and who seem to be in their advance with better regulated ideas of up-to-date custom and of a more refined system of procedure of living. We think it would be a capital idea for the progressive people of the town to persuade these four councilmen to travel and agree to pay their expenses if they would visit some of the up-to-date towns in Kentucky or elsewhere and see the decorum displayed in the regulation in regard to cows, hogs, dogs and chickens. We think that such would prove to be a valuable lesson to them and would give them courage to imitate the examples of the more progressive places and they would be better qualified to proceed in the improvement of our town. All fairminded people know that when people are settled in close proximity, that a lot of chickens running at large are troublesome and aggravating and ought not to be allowed thus to roam. There seems to be about as much propriety and fairness in restricting chickens from running on the public thoroughfares as there is in restricting cows and hogs from the same. It was hoped that we had an up to date and progressive council and that they would strike for a higher and more defined status of living instead of exhibiting a cast of fogysim and a want of nerve.

There is another nuisance that should be looked after. We are of the opinion that the dog crop of the city is too abundant for our needs and demands. We think that the dog industry should be looked after by the proper authorities. It would be a progressive idea to retire the dogs to the back yards for safe keeping. Notwithstanding it is true that people and dogs have been associated together in friendly relation a long time, and that they have trotted together down through the back woods of time; but now man has been morally and intellectually elevated, while the dog retains his original condition and we think that the parting of ways between people and dogs is at hand and that a separation, to some extent, would be advisable. Therefore a dog restriction from the public thoroughfares we think, is necessary for the peace and dignity of our town. There was a time, even in this country, when the dog seemed to be an absolute necessity and more or less useful, when the o'possum and other wild animals were a pest, but now the raccoon age has passed and dog usefulness is not so great. The dog crop of our town seems to be principally made up of the sporting variety and are used by cruel sportsmen in unmercifully slaughtering the race of Bob White, whose families are clustered in the fields and forests. We regard the partridge the most beautiful and innocent of the bird specie, but men and dogs have made sporting war upon Bob White's family until his race is fast becoming extinct, like the red men of the west. We have always admired Bob White, and never killed one. When we were young full many a time while plowing, lonesome and alone beneath the blazing summer's sky, we have heard with delight and pleasure the whistling notes and musical call of Bob White, that was cheerful as he sat perched upon a fence or stump. We believe that a world without birds would be incomplete and undesirable. In fact, a noted French naturalist has recently declared that the earth would be uninhabitable, but for the birds, who daily destroy millions of worms, insects, bugs, larva, in the land, on vegetation, in the air, borers in wood, etc., and that if all bird life was swept away, that in less than a month plagues worse than those of Egypt would destroy all human and animal life. People who have emerged from beneath the shadows of the world's rudeness and have come into the sunshine of refinement and benevolent intelligence ought to use their influence in bringing about a better state of affairs in our social and domestic procedure. There are many other things now being practiced that are entirely out of date in perfecting life and living.

Now while there are some things that we do not need, there are others that do, and the most important is, that we need a sewerage system for our town. We need two trunk line sewers running through our city east and west of Main street, commencing at the southern limits, running down north to the big branch that empties into Caney creek. This is an importance that should be looked after. An opposition to this improvement might be waged with the cry that we have no means to do the work, but if men can afford to borrow money and issue bonds to run their business it looks like our town could do the same. While we live, let us live to enjoy the comforts of life, to breathe pure air and enjoy the fruits of our liberty. Let the people and the governing authorities of our town have business nerve to build up and improve it, make it wholesome and healthy; we shall live longer and feel better and shall increase the population and the business of our town; let everybody open their eyes and look about and urge the strike for the necessary improvement. All the money that we pay out we shall not miss when we are covered up with mother earth. Our liberties and philanthropy will guild our history when we are dead, for their works do follow them.

Myers, neighbors in business on South Main street, had an argument Tuesday morning over a bag of wool that Myers was trying to buy, and the result was a fight in which both endeavored to make the wool fly. Both were taken before Judge Rice, who recognized them for appearance at an examining trial Friday.

KEEP THE LAYING HENS BUSY

Fowls Need Exercise, and Activity and Proficiency Go Hand in Hand—Make Them Scratch.

Every poultry writer in the land has told his readers day in and day out that exercise is necessary for the well being and well doing of laying hens. There is good sense and sound reason in this advice. While all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, no work and idleness makes a good hen a non-producing loser. Fowls need plenty of exercise. When given their liberty they will wander for miles over the fields and hunt and dig for bugs and seeds and that is the time they lay the most eggs. The lazy hen is never the laying hen. Activity and proficiency go hand in hand. It is, however, a sore trial to the poultry keeper to keep his hens active in winter. The tendencies are entirely toward sluggishness upon the part of the fowls. Inactivity brings its own penalties. No animal organism can maintain health and vitality without exercise. Such is not in the line of creation's manifest intent. Neither man nor the lower animals can expect a healthy digestion, normal liver or good general tone of the system without some hustling. The practical question arises, "What is the surest way to induce poultry to hustle and exercise?" We must not feed too heavily or make it too easy for the birds to get their food. They will not work unless obliged to, and in this particular are not unlike many human beings that we know. We must make them scratch for their living. One of the main points of the Philo system is to bury the wheat or oats in the ground several inches deep and let the hens dig it up, either in a sprouted condition or otherwise. We must make them scratch in a foot of straw or leaves for their grain all winter. Also throw some large sized beef scraps among the litter. They will hunt and dig all day long for such delicacies and get the much-needed exercise at the same time. And this parts the vigor and health that promote the egg production and vitality that gives us the greater amount of fertile eggs. Make them work for all that they get; only feed mash feed, table scraps and vegetables in the troughs; throw all the grain into a deep litter.

GOOD COOP FOR FATTENING

Can Be Made Any Size Desired With Slat Far Enough Apart to Allow Chickens to Eat and Drink.

This fattening coop can be made any size desired. It has a slat front, with the slats far enough apart to allow the chickens to eat and drink out of the little troughs, writes D. D. Lawson in the Farm and Fireside. The floor is also made of slats, which makes the coop sanitary. The little troughs are made with lids, thus protecting the food and water from dirt and dust. The roof is sloping, to allow the water to run off of it in rainy weather. A box of gravel or oyster-shell should be kept in the coop. This is an excellent way to fatten chickens.

POULTRY NOTES

Do not neglect the laying hen's exercise. The best partner on an egg farm is a good laying hen. Finely bred birds are often badly bred egg producers. Judge not a hen by her beauty, but by the way she does her duty. You can keep breeding drakes as long as seven or eight years. The largest ingredients in eggs are lime, nitrogen and phosphoric acid. The goose, unlike the duck, does not scatter her eggs wherever she happens to be. The poultry man who grades up and not down, is the one that meets with progress. Improvement will never cease. No matter what sort of a floor one has in the poultry house, the great problem is to keep it clean and free from filth. You may feed all the food your hens can possibly use, but if you are short of grit, the results will not be satisfactory. The best prices for breeding birds are obtained at the poultry shows. Beginners generally get the fever about that time. In spite of the great reputation of the smaller breeds for egg production a Brahma hen is said to hold the record for yearly egg production. A neatly dressed fowl, even if it be small, will always sell more readily than a large one with half of the feathers on, bruises here and there, etc. The common practice in poultry packing houses is to feed each lot seventeen days or less. Most of the milk-fed chickens are fed fourteen days.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve action, nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular stomach remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, it also brought this stomach and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With out that initial and highest point principle, no lasting accomplishment was ever to be had. For stomach distress, heartburn, flatulency, bad breath and salivary excretion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.
